Our Man Bruce Foster Gets one on it way

Well! All seems to have worked out. I was so worried about all the equipment on the field limiting the usability of the field. Mostly the fact that they put a rubber fence across the middle of the large field on Mytle. That issue was removed during the week. The weather was not too unkind except for the Ground effect barrier on Sunday. Most models could not punch though. Flying was committed by the usual suspects. Also, my faith was restored. There will be some changes to the contest line up. For one we will no longer waste resources looking for SAM or Nostalgia flyers. I have spent decades looking for them, with no luck. YES!, there are pockets here and there. Example The Great Grape Gathering, Empire State Free Flight Champs, The Brooklyn Skyscrapers and the King Orange are still running AMA Sanctioned Contest in the East.

We are lucky in one aspect, The Flying Aces club does manage to have a very active, capable and committed “Membership”

So, on to the contest scores:

From the Oval Workbench

Hi gang... time for another boring epistle from the Oval Workbench.

Here it is ,early August and that means the TFF contest season is over. I'm sure Jerry will fill you in on the excitement, but suffice to say the Don Myers Mem. was sparsely attended mostly because of offal weather(I use that word in place of what I'd like to say!!). But aside from that...

You guys that live a bit away, consider this, you could come down with the family, fly in the morning, then you all go driving about and visit some of the things around and about Hammonton. For instance:

At least four wineries within 15 mins. of downtown Hammonton.

A really great Italian deli and market, Baglianis Market in downtown H.

Two breweries in town, And a distillery as well. Fresh fruit and produce stands everywhere. Historic Smithville Village, (which my family had some part in!!!) is only about 45 mins. away. Downtown H. has several Mexican and Italian restaurants and lots of other cafe type joints. AND THE SHORE IS ONLY 45 MINS. AWAY!!!

So... be a flyer and a tourist!!! Come on down!

Sincerely-----Da Prez

Well, that's all I have at this time. The September- October issue will be coverage of my two trips to SAM Contests, The Great Grape Gathering and the SAM 7 East Coast Free Flight Champs.
